2. Let's look at some of the main reasons people decide to plan ahead for their funeral:

The most dependable way to guarantee your end-of-life wishes are respected is through an advance directive—a legal document that clearly outlines the types of care and interventions you desire, and those you wish to avoid. Your family will ultimately carry out your wishes, ensuring they're honored as you intended. But who will make sure every detail of your final image is flawlessly preserved?

Discover the personalized touch of our Image-Stylist Consultant, devoted to crafting your style in life and beyond. Ideally, end-of-life planning should come well before the end of your life, not during. If you need to discuss end-of-life plans with a parent or loved one, experts recommend the 40/70 rule: If you're 40 or your parents are 70, it's time to discuss end-of-life planning. If you're planning for yourself, do it NOW!
